Tourist Attractions in Keta and its environs

1. Fort Prinzenstein

Built in 1784, was a Danish fort that became a holding station for slaves that were being shipped to the Caribbean.

2. Atorkor Slave Market

In the days of the slave trade, Atorkor became an important slave market. As a result, a memorial was erected in one of Keta's excellent technical colleges to remember the hardships of the slave's journey .

3. Keta Lagoon

One of Keta's biggest attractions is its lagoon and provides a source of food and livelihood for the local residents. Made up of fresh, shallow water this beautiful body of water happens to be the largest in the country at 40km long and 8km wide.

4. Bird Sanctuary

The bird watching island is arguably the best place to view the birds in their natural environment. The island also serves as a breeding point for the birds and during the dry season, tourists can see eggs hatching.

5. Cape St. James Lighthouse

This ancient light house located in Woe, built in 1901 can be found just off Keta's Municipalities main road. It is a vital part of Keta's coast line. Still functioning, it is used to direct ships at night away from what is believed to be a big submerged mountain just off the coast of Woe.
